

Lest we forget.

Members of the Royal Commonwealth Society together with the Britain- Australia Society, Australian and New Zealand armed forces and the Commonwealth War Graves Commission joined local people at the annual Anzac Day Service at Sutton Veny in Wiltshire on April 23rd.

Held to remember the Australian and New Zealand soldiers who died in the First World War and are buried in the graveyard, wreaths were laid afterwards at the memorial close to the church. Among those present was the chair of the Bath and District RCS. Godfrey Hall and Air Commodore Brian Edwards, the Australian Defence Adviser in London. The day started with lunch at the Officer's Mess in Warminster and was followed by a Service of Remembrance, wreath laying and an Australian themed tea provided by the parishioners of Sutton Veny. The buglers who sounded the Last Post came from the Winchester Band of Bugles
